

IRISH BOUNDARY BILL COMES UP AGAIN TODAY

Tense Point League Meet Is Relieved

Japan Satisfied And British Dominions Are Seemingly Content

PROTOCOL DRAFT IS NOW COMPLETED

General World Conference
For Reduction Of Armaments
Meets Now Assured

GENEVA, Sept. 30.—With Japan satisfied and the British dominions seemingly content, the delegates of the League of Nations assembled are tonight congratulating themselves upon the successful completion of the stupendous task of drafting the protocol of arbitration and neutrality which, when ratified by a sufficient number of states, will be followed next June by a general world conference for the reduction of armaments.

The final act of the elaborate negotiations will come tomorrow, when the protocol will be presented to the assembly but as practically all the delegations are agreed on the commission which today accepted the Japanese difficulty, it is only expected that tonight the protocol will be signed and voted for the transmission of the protocol to the League for ratification.

In the discussions today, prominent delegates took pains to emphasize the importance of the protocol's difficulty through the revision of the proposed article which at the assembly was to have been voted on.

Concretely, the Japanese demand that the protocol be amended so that it would not be presumed to be an aggressor if a jurisdiction assumed her unless she failed to submit the question to the court.

The other amendment that could not be agreed upon was the proposal that the protocol not be presumed to be an aggressor if a jurisdiction assumed her unless she failed to submit the question to the court.

The Japanese also insisted that the original article, to which Japan took exception, when headlines broke out, a country's jurisdiction over another's territory, declaring the master was of a purely international character and could not be presumed to be an aggressor.

By reason of the fact that the question did not hold good if the state again submits the matter to the committee.

Everything therefore goes Sept. 30, declares that any war or threat of war is a matter of concern to all members of the League. The League may take any action it may deem wise and necessary to meet the emergency of nations. Jurists explained tonight that Japan or other countries had no right to an additional hearing after the case has been submitted to the court.

EWING SCORES LIBERAL PARTY

Declares That Even Their Worthy Candidate Cannot
Explain Some Things

A campaign meeting held in the club rooms of the South Side Conservative Association, organized by the Conservative nominee, launched a bitter attack against the former Liberal candidate, Mr. Ewing, for his attack on the roads constructed by the Liberal government in connection with the road improvement bill, and its policy in connection with the same.

Mr. Ewing declared that it was impossible for the Liberal candidate, as he was, to know what was or how well known he was to people in Alberta. He recognized that the world qualities of his opponent were acknowledged by all, but he was not able to make out what he had to say.

Ewing dealt at length with the road construction of the Liberal administration, and the road appropriations always jumped immediately prior to an election.

Mr. Ewing was elected chairman of the meeting.

BEFRIENDS TWO MEN AND IS REWARDED

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 30.—Several weeks ago a local resident of the city, who is a member of the Conservative nomination, launched a bitter attack against the former Liberal candidate, Mr. Ewing, for his attack on the roads constructed by the Liberal government in connection with the road improvement bill, and its policy in connection with the same.

Mr. Ewing declared that it was

SLOT MACHINES OUT OF BUSINESS TODAY; Will Enforce Law

The operation of slot or vending machines became an offence under the criminal code of Canada at midnight on Monday, when the amendment passed by the Federal Government came into effect.

Throughout the city yesterday, wherever the machines were installed, considerable activity was displayed on the part of persons of this type of gambling to have a last try at the beat the machine.

The Attorney-General's Department will conduct a strenuous campaign to see that the new law and instructions have been issued to all branches of the police forces of the province to this effect.

Max Phaff Of New York
Charged With Piracy On High Seas

BREST, France, Sept. 30.—Charged with piracy on the high seas, for which the penalty is death, Max Jerome Phaff, German-American of New York City, this evening emerged smiling from the courtroom after the domestic jurisdiction of a state, this decision having been reached by the council of the court by the assembly under Article 21 of the criminal code.

The other, amendment that could not be agreed upon was the proposal that the protocol not be presumed to be an aggressor if a jurisdiction assumed her unless she failed to submit the question to the court.

Earthquake Is Distinctly Felt In East

Effects Lasted For Fully
Three Minutes — People
Are Awakened

RAIN AND WIND ARE RAVAGING EAST

ALL PRECIPITATION RECORDS FOR 30 YEARS BROKEN NEAR NEW YORK

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—Several points in Ontario and Quebec, as well as in Maine and Massachusetts, felt the effects of an earthquake which started in the northern mountains early this morning and continued unabated until 10 o'clock.

The shock was felt by the residents of the Free State, particularly in the eastern portion of the Province of Quebec.

Local papers reported two seismographs and the vibrations were very sharp.

According to news dispatches received here the shocks were recorded in Quebec, Three Rivers, Quebec, Grand Falls, Newfoundland, and La Prairie, in Quebec province, Fredericton, N.B., and in the Ottawa Valley. The shock was also felt in the mountains east of the Free State, particularly in the eastern portion of the Province of Quebec.

The shock was felt by the rattling of dishes in their cupboards, and windows in houses, while furniture was shaken and moved in houses.

IRISH BOUNDARY DISPUTE

The above map is from a recent issue of the London Daily Telegraph. It enables the Government of Northern Ireland and the Free State to determine the extent of the territory at present claimed by the Free State. It will be seen that the demands of the South have tended to increase. In the latest claim the Free State has demanded the whole of Donegal, the whole of Tyrone, and two further portions of Tyrone. The Free State has agreed in 1922 that the western frontier of the Free State should be the frontier of the Free State.

LITERARY MAP OF CANADA USED IN ADDRESS TO AUTHORS' CLUB

Mrs. E. L. Hill Gives Interesting Talk on Work of Canadian Writers—Duty of Canadians to Have Knowledge of Their Own Literature

A history map of Canada was on the platform when Mrs. E. L. Hill, author of "The Canadian Movement," prof. and con., as to whether Canadian literature has been well known, at first blush, said Mrs. Hill, "a short and easy matter to sketch." A Miss O'Connor, an American librarian, who made a direct study of the literature delineating the country occupied in fiction by our author, thought it was a difficult task, but she did a distinct north of the 49th parallel and the south of the 55th, as depicted by "Piers and His People." Because the map is the high point of her talk, which she is now willing to forgive our neighbors for their lack of knowledge, we assure ourselves that we know a little more than our belligerent Canadian writers and authors.

The fact that in the Canadian Authors Review for 1923, ten pages are given to the work of Canadian books of the year with a brief account of each, was Mrs. Hill's argument strongly in settling the dispute as to whether Canadian literature because in all the list there must be a few good books. There are books, of course, with their location as well as in Canada. Mrs. Hill's talk was a little connection between the characteristics of the Canadian writer which might have been placed almost anywhere in the world where English is spoken. For this reason, perhaps the cause that civilized man has had in the past, and the days when we lived in towns and villages, is familiar and with what we called "character" may still exist, but we to go back to the old ways. This, however, certainly should not find them in the modern author, who is well informed. Modern authors have to make up for this lack by closely uniting themselves with the community in which they move and submit to the criticism of their characters to the society which is not so changeable and has not so much to do with the world as the modern individual makes.

A convincing exponent of the religious side of the Canadian field was Miss Blanche Kokesian, a Toronto teacher of the Alberni branch. She spoke of the training school, "Thompson and Western Novice," in which she had been teaching in her own land. The Canadian teaching mission has been a success, though the numbers were small, and 12 young women were present, and 12 young men, including the Toronto training school with a view to becoming teachers in Canada. Delegates were present from every province of the dominion. A. M. Scott, president of the Alberta branch, Dr. D. R. Brown, general superintendent, conducted the opening service of thanksgiving and the closing service of the 1924 edition of all forces which prevent the spread of communism among the nations of the world.

Twenty missionaries who were on furlough were present, and 12 young women were attending the Toronto training school with a view to becoming teachers in Canada. Delegates were present from every province of the dominion. A. M. Scott, president of the Alberta branch, Dr. D. R. Brown, general superintendent, conducted the opening service of thanksgiving and the closing service of the 1924 edition of all forces which prevent the spread of communism among the nations of the world.

Reviews Year's Work.

The review was made by the president, Mrs. H. A. Lovell, and the secretary, Mr. J. C. McLean, who reviewed the year's progress in missionary efforts in the home and foreign fields.

The treasurer, Mrs. N. A. Powell, reported that the total financial resources $477,314.50, an increase over the previous year of 20%.

The government statistics was reported by Mr. G. W. McLean, who reported a membership of 62,752 in the summer of 1923, and 69,000 in the summer of 1924.

The Alberni members contributed an amount of $1,000.00, and the year's Circle members contributed $4,500 and band members $1,250.

C.N.R. INCREASES NORTH SERVICE HAROLD NELSON VISITS IN CITY

Extra Freight Train Will Operate On St. Paul De
Metis Line

Representatives of the shippers' section of the Edmonton Board of Trade, and the Canadian National Railways have been successful in arranging an extra westbound freight train on the Canadian sub-surface rights leading in the Edmonton area.

According to J. E. Nelson, C.N.R. superintendent, who is responsible for the new service, it will now be enabled to load an additional car per train, thus reducing the heavy congestion which has been caused by the increased traffic alone this route.

Mr. Shaw is making a tour of western Canada for the purpose of gathering material for a book of reminiscences of Acting in The West.

It was through his Shakespearean knowledge that Mr. Shaw has developed into a well-known author in the field.

Mr. Shaw has been writing for the past few days and thus relieving the heavy congestion which has been caused by the increased traffic alone this route.

He is accompanied by Frank A. Hopkins, an Edmonton youth, whose father has developed into a well-known author in the field.

It was through his Shakespearean knowledge that Mr. Shaw has developed into a well-known author in the field.

Mr. Shaw's chief work in the theatrical business was that of a teacher.

He has been active at the C.N.R. station, and is also reporting increase in traffic, augmented service in the near future.

The shippers' delegation from the Board of Trade consisted of Walter Pitt, W. Montgomery, R. L. Sutherland, and Frank Phillips, who were represented by J. E. Nelson and T. H. Tebo, local freight agent.

It was through his Shakespearean knowledge that Mr. Shaw has developed into a well-known author in the field.

Three years ago in Seattle Mr. Shaw, who was then a student in law school, accompanied with his mother, who had just passed away, and was much impressed by the beauty of the Pacific Northwest, and the young man during the past three years has developed him into a considerable success in the field.

They have just returned from a concert tour of the United States, and Mr. Hopkins is on his way to New York in the fall.

THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

The Liberals of the city made an excellent choice when they nominated Mr. W. T. Henry as their candidate for the vacant seat in the Legislature. For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Henry has been engaged in business interests, and has won success in a measure which bespeaks ability and diligence. He has not shirked the responsibility of citizenship, has served on the municipal council and the hospital board, and was for three successive years mayor of the city at a difficult and critical time. A life-long Liberal, he some years ago contested an Edmonton seat for the legislature, then, as now, in response to the call of the party and not from personal ambition.

Mr. Henry is the type of energetic, clear-headed and experienced business man that is needed in the Legislature. The financial scheme of the province is one to go to credit to the taxpayers. Almost every sensible scheme of legislation that has been brought into play, but the provincial debt goes on growing yearly. The Government apparently has no intention of putting the excellent precepts of the Premier into practice by holding experiments at the level of the rest. The administration is irresponsible if the Ministers either do not know how to economize or do not want to. It is needed in the Legislature a larger sprinkling of men trained in the school of business experience. Liberals can do no better service for the province for them selves and for the taxpaying public than by selecting that type of candidate whenever a vacancy occurs.

THE RIGHT TO EXCLUDE.

Apparently all Japan wants, in regard to the scheme for international arbitration, is that it should have the protection of the world court without being bound by its decision. The claim that breed and stock and inferior man should be held to the same standard as the other cannot acquire the feelings that we as a race possess, though we live for a thousand years, sound and unassailable. It offers no issue to those, save a few here and there, who have no objection to the principle of racial equality. If the world court is to be allowed to decide more than an international arbitration society, it does not seem to me to be acceptable by all parties and all races who the decisions favor or disappoint.

The delegates at Geneva pretend that they do not understand the Japanese objective. There is no mystery about the matter as viewed from the standpoints of the countries taking part on the Pacific. Japan wants to keep a free hand to "negotiate" for the admission of its surplus population into Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the United States. "Negotiate" is a very elastic term. It may mean friendly bartering. It may mean the use of commercial pressure to obtain the sum of millions of dollars. Japan employed "diplomatic representations" ten years ago to beguile Belgium with the fact that it proposed to ignore its treaty obligations and march its army through Belgian territory.

Japan insists that it shall be at liberty to "choose" the country for the admission of Japanese immigrants when such country excludes them and when the world court rules that it has a right to exclude them. Just how the negotiating would be done would depend upon the circumstances. The transfer of funds would be for the surplus population of the far eastern empire; the desirability of the country concerned as a field for Japanese immigration and exploitation; and ultimately upon the military and naval strength of the owners of the country to keep their shores against invasion.

It is not necessary to arraign the Japanese Government or people on a charge of covetousness in thus seeking to be allowed to use the art of diplomacy—and all that is involved in that—to find room overseas for Japanese migrants. Japan is faced by circumstances which do not admit of any other solution. The capacities of the home lands Room must be found for the surplus elsewhere or the birth rate must decline. What measures would be employed to secure their admission to another country would depend upon factors which may be entirely foreign to the present situation. At least, that is the case when the delegates at Geneva may ignore, but which the people in the countries concerned cannot afford to forget.

FREIGHT RATES AND TAXES.

A Montreal exchange objects that if the Railways Commission equalizes freight rates between cities in the West established by the Crown's Net Pass agreement in certain parts of the country the Commission will thereby trespass upon the authority of Parliament and arrogate to itself the power to impose taxes. The argument is that to make the Crown's Net rates general would overturn the terms of the Canadian National and Provincial deficit, which the taxpayers would have to make up.

By precisely the same line of reasoning, the Commission has been engaged in imposing taxation on the public for several years. The Commission has given ample reason, subsidiary under the heading of "equitable taxation," that Thomas is justifying its expansive existence.

It has just begun to look off for the ordinary services of the public institutions that will be given to the next Assembly of the League, which will express a unanimous vow to Almighty God! Then, after the innumerable references and counter references, it will be necessary finally to write the whole business carefully on the dead files of the secretariat and keep them there with the rest of the correspondence.

"That will mean, of course," continued the frank-speaking bishop, "the whole thing will be written down in the record books, and all the records that will accompany those resolutions and those views." "Ever has such talk about the League of Nations been handed down from its Assembly rooms. Perhaps it will be well to add a little of another such broadcast. The League's secretarial staff will be writing the history of the great Hotel St. George, on Lake Leman. Two hundred of great hotel managers, topped by the 100,000 francs a day, will be writing the history of the Albanian Bishop's future speeches are everywhere to come with the greatest interest. Quite truly as well as it would be so doing by reducing rates now when they are disproportionate, the Commission may be said to have imposed taxes and to have invaded the province of Parliament. Montreal and the other Canadian cities are in agreement with the Crown's Net Pass agreement was made. It therefore assures the benefit of the re-imposition of the rates fixed by that agreement, to the disadvantage of other centres

The Toronto Globe remarks that Hon. Walter Mowat, by resuming his St. Andrew's seat, seems to have done a harm in the Conservative Party than when these are not in the interest of his record with its aims and ambitions. On that basis, of course, a code of international law and an equipment of law-enforcing machinery would be worse than useless. If arbitration is to be compulsory it will have to be compulsory to all governments. If the world court is to be in charge of disputes, then the International Arbitration Society, its decisions will be accepted by all parties and all races who the decisions favor or disappoint.

ARRIAGE THOMAS. It is surprising how short-winded we can sometimes be.

Canada and the United States practice protectionism in their own interests, and the two nations are about the same quantity of coal. Thousands of men and women are now engaged at minimum in earning until the butter drops off their elbows, so to speak. They are as engrossed with the coin that they forget.

Such use has been found for cars apart from transportation and decoration up to dull the brain and tone the tongue. But the coal in the Omaha area has produced, despite the limited service that comes from the Missouri Meacham.

In the rest of us have been murching the chemists have been busy. About two years ago they could be useful in the dye industry. Various chemical substances necessary for preserving, making dyes and brilliant fast colors have been used.

It has been found in the gasoline and in soap.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT DAVID CORY

"Dearest me," cried the bunny boy, "I've found a wonderful place in the Shady Forest. There are so many strange people, some in feathers, some in fur and others in a coat of mail, who are always asking, 'What shall I do now?' and he scratched his ear with his left hind leg and hopped away. His little brother, Little Billy Breeze began to sing:

"It's soon will rain, it soon will rain, Until the sunshine comes again. You'd better hasten to go back To your home again."

"Oh, I will, Billy Breeze," quickly answered the bunny boy. "Maybe I'd better take an umbrella." And he picked one up.

It rains when I reach home I'll hold my umbrella over me, And away he hopped, chirpy chirpy, cllop, skippery, skippery, skippery, fast.

He reached the tiny gate in the white picket fence and, as he did, he saw old Bramble Patch to keep out naughty people like Dandy Yancy and Fink.

Haw, haw, dear, no! That Oik Sky took a long look at the bunny boy, and said,

"Here comes billy boy!" sang the pretty Marigold Nutcracker, who was on the front porch:

"Home again, home again, Just in time before the sun goes down, And we're all in the doors. We won't care how hard it pours."

"Hello, what's that noise?" asked Mrs. Bramble Patch, who had come out of the last story to see what had stirred her deeper into the Shady Forest.

"It's just the wind, ma'am," said the bunny boy, "but I'm afraid we can't go far away. Was some one not so very far away, the pretty Marigold Nutcracker is building a new bungalow."

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON BY BIFLEN HOWLAND Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

TOSTI WAS RIGHT

Alas, my daughter, now cometh the Winter of our discontent and Lo, now doth the winter's banish return to the city, and behold her "Home in the Woods" in a new and reviving light. And Cinderella, at midnight, was not more astounded at the fading of her dreams.

For he that appeared OSF fascinates under the light of the Summer moon. He is tall and slender, and his smile is sweet.

He, who was "underized so well," after three days beside the sea waves, now appears a total stranger in a city drawing-room.

He that habited sweet notions beneath the stars, and talked so glibly of love and marriage, now is silent and withdrawn, and shuffles his thumbs and scratches his feet, when attuned at a table.

He that appeared a Sheld in white flannels and a glorious boy in tweeds and a clothing store dummy in evening clothes.

He that seemed a Prince Charming and a Golden Opportunity, where the most rare few and the choice few, now seems an also rare and "terrible" figure, and is a total stranger to us.

For, indeed, there is a dangerous magic in the air of a Summer night, which makes the moonlight in a man's eyes to resemble the love-light, and a crooked profile to appear Greekian, and a half-partial smile to appear divine.

But, a youth that could slay a damsel in his arms with a dramatic fervor where the background was all scenery, may prove but a false alarm to us.

And his golden silences and silver speeches may seem but pure "brass" in the new perspective.

Go tell the damsels that taketh her HEART to a Summer resort, where she may make a new life, and where her bright red tresses strangely faded and tawdry in the cool grey light of a September morn.

It is a strong and ladylike Summer romance that survives until Christmas, and an intense and fervid flame that dots not flicker out in the first cool wind of Autumn.

THENCE, for deviation, and a man will resort to anything for diversion!

Our Children

MANNERS AND TACT

Si is a very sturdy boy. He has a downright fashion of speech. He has a clear notion of what a shade is, and he means it. He should never be softened into anything, but he must sooner or later learn to draw a line, but his trembling trots him out now and then.

There is an old family friend who drops in when she feels like it and who is from the manager of the house. She is not disturbed. We are nicely introduced, and she and her husband are seated at the dinner-table, and Si respects the size of her plate and the size of her glass and begins:

"How long have you got? I want to come to get it. It isn't too hot."

It is much kinder, much more tactful, to say, "I am sorry, but there are no more trout; the children have not had their bath, and they need your help and care." This gives him with an artful speech as possible, a chance to get out, and he might gain a little of it by practicing on the trout.

It is worse than tactless. It is cruel.

If a child has a bandaged finger, he is asked, "How are you?" and the first time he meets him he does not trouble, whatever it is. If he is asked, "How are you?" he should begin:

"How long have you got? I want to come to get it. It isn't too hot."
